FUTURE with ‘GOING TO’ and ‘WILL’

- Your name is Jennifer. A reporter just asked you, “What are you going to do next weekend?” Read aloud your answer.

Jennifer

What are you going to do next weekend?

What am I going to do next weekend? Well, I'm not sure, but I think I'll probably stay at home all day on Saturday and clean my apartment. I know that sounds pretty boring, but my apartment is a bit messy. It's about time I cleaned it up! On Sunday, however, I have some more interesting plans. I'm going to meet two or three friends at a restaurant at eight o'clock and have breakfast. We usually do that once or twice a month. After that, we're going to go window shopping at a shopping mall. At noon, we're going to have lunch. We're going to eat at an Italian restaurant. I love Italian food! And then we'll probably visit a museum. I don't really like to go to museums that much, but my friends really like museums. But I think I'll still have a good time!

What are you going to do next weekend?

B

Oh, that’s an easy question! On Saturday, I’m going to sleep in until nine o’clock. Then, I’m going to have breakfast with my family. I love to make weekend breakfasts for my wife and two kids. After breakfast, we’re going to go to a park near our home. We almost always do that. We love kick a ball around and fly a kite. We’ll probably have a late lunch around one o’clock, and then we’ll go home. In the afternoon, I’ll help my kids with their homework. Tom is in grade two, and Kelly is in grade three. On Sunday, I really want to bring my family to a theater to see a movie. The movie is about a dog that walks five hundred miles to get home to his family. After the movie, we’ll go home and have dinner and go to bed early. My kids have school the next day!

ACTIVITY NOTES

- Because the interviewers must both listen and take notes at the same time, consider allowing them to write incomplete sentences ("notes") on the question handout.
- Following the activity, you can elicit complete sentences and write them on the board – or have students volunteer to come up and write their sentences.
- Before the activity, it may be useful to write one or two phrases on the board asking for repetition or clarification – and practice them with your students.
For example: "Excuse me, could you repeat that?" or "Did you say ...?"
- This activity works well as a lead-in to a less guided activity in which students interview their classmates (who supply real answers about themselves).
